

Add a new golf shot to your arsenal

The young guns are all over the major golf tours now. They're lithe, strong, and can hit the golf ball a long, long way. But in recent weeks two of the older members of the PGA Tour have reminded us that to be at the top you need to be able to play all sorts of shots.

First, Phil Mickelson at the Genesis Open plays a flop shot over the grandstand. We agree with Nick Faldo's comment. Good job for not taking too long, Phil.

Then Tiger Woods rolled back the years with an amazing fairway bunker shot. No words needed.

It seems if you watch the adverts, that everything about the driver is now related to "speed". Faster clubhead speed. Faster ball speeds, wherever on the face you make contact with the ball.

But really, the starting point should be you. What is it you need? What improvement would most increase the enjoyment you get from your playing experience?

Fill in your survey

That's why we'd like you to complete this survey and let us know what's most important to you and your playing experience.

Just 100 yards from the flag. You can place the ball on a tee, creating the perfect lie. This is an opportunity to put a low number on your card. For many, it's the chance for a net birdie. So what goes wrong?

We see four very common challenges. If you suffer from these, then they're easy to overcome.

Club selection

Most of you choose a club which, if struck perfectly, gets to the flag. As a minimum choose a club which, if hit perfectly, gets you to the back of the green.

Ball position

We see a lot of golfers tee the ball up awfully high when using an iron. You should be trying to create the perfect lie.

Game management

Put the ball in the fat of the green away from trouble, and you have more room for error. Don't go flag hunting when the risk of a 5 or worse is staring at you.

Technique

We still see a lot of long irons in bags. They're tough to hit consistently. But many of those who've converted to hybrids have never had a lesson to learn the technique with this club.

Make Par 3 improvement a priority

What improvement would make a difference to your Par 3 scorecard?

We want to help make you a Par 3 Master.
