Off to the Presidents Cup – Ernie, here I come!

It's our year to win! Ernie vs Tiger, again!

On the night of the Els for Autism event held here earlier this year, Nico Van Rensburg said something to me in the middle of our auction. I was pretty wrapped up in being the Auctioneer and what he said went over my head. We went on to raise more than R400 000 before he repeated that I would be attending the Presidents Cup! "What are you talking about?", and Liezl just smiled... "You're going to the Presidents Cup as a VIP and an ambassador for Ernie!"

Well, today I am off! First stop is Sydney where I'll watch the final round of the Aussie Open, staying with my friend and CEO of the Australian Club, Steven Shearer. He has a home at the Club so it'll be a short walk to the tee.

From there I travel to Melbourne and will see it all. I am packing my best St from there I travel to Melbourne and witness team fan packing my soccer Francis Links logoed shirts and caps to be visible at every opportunity! I got asked if I wanted to play golf while in Oz, and my answer was simple as I am going to watch golf, not to play. I will be there every minute of every day, from the first shot to the last.

The tournament will be played on what is referred to as the composite course, a combination of holes from their East Course (6 holes) and from their West Course (12 holes).

From the scorecard below, take note of the holes that are played. It is interesting to note that the composite course is the course that is rated one of the best in the world and I think it could only be played in special events. I don't think you can pitch up and ask to play it!

When you watch the Presidents Cup next week, look at the natural bunkers and how some are simply cut into the green. The greens and the entire course will play firm and fast. Shot-making will determine who wins their matches. Confident putters will have an easier time. Ernie loves the course in the Sandbelt as the area is known. He not only played well there, but his course design was also inspired by them. Our member James B just reminded me that Ernie has the course record there – 60!

Ernie will be fielding a side with only one South African and six rookies. The American side is all ranked higher than the entire International team, except Adam Scott. But what is on paper does not necessarily determine the result. With Tiger playing (and don't be surprised if you only see him once or twice before the singles) I like our odds even better. Let Ernie do a "Bjorn" on Tiger and get the boys together as a team despite the cultural and language differences. He has been working with the prospective team members over the past 18 months and Tiger has his guys at the Hero Challenge before flying 20 hours to OZ. Maybe I'm thinking with my heart more than my head, but Ernie will give them the South African drive!

Muirfield, the 2nd Annual – what a great day!

St Francis Links "The Muirfield"

Monday, 02 December 2019

When Keith Simpson agreed to say a few words about Scotland, playing Muirfield and some stories bout St Andrews, the Home of Golf and other bits, he started the Muirfield lunch with style. After foursomes in the morning and the traditional gin, dram or pint before lunch, we moved to the dining room for a spectacular tribute to Scottish cooking. Chef Jon just got it right. The lunch featuring everything from amazing haggis bonbons to the most tender lamb ever. The afternoon golf was played with spirits (I mean great spirit) and everyone gathered above the 18th for stories and a final toast or three to the day. See you next year!

What matters most to you?

It's the question 'WHY?'

Last week we asked if you could answer one question. With the ability to be entirely anonymous. We wanted to know how you viewed your position on a simple continuum. Where do you see yourself on your golfing journey?

At one end there's space for the person who sees golf totally as a competitive sport, and on the other end there's those that see it as a social and recreational activity. We're asking golfers to position themselves. Next month we'll publish a SUMMARY of how our community of golfers see the game.

If you haven't already done so

So, if haven't given a response then please follow the link below. It's a very short and very private survey – no personal details required – so go on

Think about your golf

Trvina to BREAK 85?

The second statistic we want you to collect over 4 rounds, is your average score on Par 3s that are within iron shot range. If you missed last week's article, and the first statistic click here.

If you're often under 90 but struggle to get below 85 regularly, then there's a good chance that becoming consistent on the Par 3s will get you there.

Two 3s and two 4s on your card and you're doing well. Three 3s and provided your steady elsewhere then you're likely to be below 85.

Improvements you can make that pay off on any approach shot:

If we can make sure your rotation and ball striking is led by your large muscles and not your hands, then we can improve your consistency of contact and accuracy of result.

There're a number of consistent club and shot selection errors we see from less experienced or skilled golfers that often cost them a stroke per Par 3. It's an easy fix.

"Improving your ball striking consistency, club selection, and shot selection on Par 3s will have a big impact on your approach shot performance on every hole."
