The gifts we offer you

Having confidence and trust in your ability to hit any target you set for yourself, is a sweet place to be. The right iron setup helps you hit more accurate shots more consistently and can go a long way to helping you believe.

LIE ANGLE IMPACTS ACCURACY

A lie angle that is too flat causes slices, while one that is too upright can lead to hook shots. The very best golfers can compensate for an incorrect lie angle. For the rest of us, it means less accurate shots and a less consistent swing.

The lie angle cannot always be changed easily, so it's best to make sure yours is correct for a new set of clubs before you buy them.

YOUR TRUE LIE ANGLE

Due to swing compensations, lie angle at address doesn't necessarily indicate lie angle at impact. So we should check your lie angle during a swing.

GENERATE MORE POWER

without adding strain.

Just because you play less golf in winter doesn't mean you can't work on your game. Let's use this time to work on distance.

Generating more power can put a strain on your hips and back, and over the long-term, lead to injury. But a stronger core protects you while adding distance.

More power without increased injury risk

The SIDE PLANK strengthens your core, butt and shoulders, key muscles for your swing and posture. Hold yourself up on one forearm with your feet stacked. Hold for 5 - 10 seconds and repeat on the other side.

If you're unsure how to perform this exercise, please ask a fitness professional. They could also show you progressions if you want more of a challenge.

Yoga builds core strength and flexibility for a more powerful golf swing. And anybody can do it.

Add distance to your game and better movement to your life

Strengthening your core can help you add more yards on the course, and improve your overall quality of life.
