From the Founder's Desk

I've had the pleasure of spending some time down in the Garden Route area this last week, and managed to catch up with two of our PGA Diploma graduates who work in the area.

Jeremy d'Argent (Class of 2014) is the Director of Golf at The Links, Fancourt and it was wonderful to grab a round of golf with him on this magnificent golf course. Jeremy is doing a great job there, with a strong attention to detail, focus on customer experience, and care for his staff.

I also popped in to see Regardt Richter (Class of 2019) who is one of the PGA Professionals at Scratch Golf in Knysna. Regardt's role is a great mixture of coaching, retailing and custom fitting. He has also been competing well in the local PGA Pro/Am's, finishing 5th in the latest Order of Merit.

Keep up the great work gents. Proud of you both.

The key to better golf - Core training part 2

Performance Tip of the Week

Brought to you by Renee Reinecke, BSI Resident Sports Scientist

The core is a complex series of muscles which extend far beyond your abs. The core includes the abdominal, back and glute muscles. Your core is a dynamic stabilizer in all three planes of movement, it allows for transfers of force from one muscle to another as well as a 'shock absorber' for injury.

Stability refers to the body's ability to control movement. When we look at the golf swing for instance and the importance of effective functional movement, it is imperative so learn how to maintain a good spine angle, thorax to pelvis separation, generate power from the hips and stabilise the spine and pelvis respectively. Core stability reduces the risk of injury commonly found in golf and improves sporting performance. Lower back pain and injury are often a result of movement restrictions in the upper spine and hips. Once movement is limited in these regions, the lower spine is forced to produce rotation in the golf swing. The result is at best reduced distance, accuracy and consistency in shots and at worst, injury. A more effective approach is to train stability in the lumbar spine and mobility in the hips and upper spine.

BSI Premier 18-hole Medal

Well done to Sean Paxton for his score of 1-over 73 and taking the BSI 18-hole Premier medal win on Friday 22 April 2022 played on Royal Johannesburg and Kensington East GC. This is Sean's second win for the year and keeps him at 3rd place in the Order of Merit. Keep up the great work Sean and coach Chris Wright.

Personal Bests:

Alexander Mornau 81

Cara Bosman 82

BSI Junior Academy 18-hole Medal

Congratulations to Pieter-Andre van der Merwe & Dowoo Kim on winning last week's Junior Academy Medal with tied scores of 76 on Royal Johannesburg & Kensington East Course. Dowoo has barely been at the academy for one month and is already showing strong signs of becoming a great golfer under the tutelage of his coach Tyrone Gibb. Pieter-Andre's consistent form and hard-work has kept him in second place on the Junior Academy Order of Merit. May the two of you keep up what you are doing in training and the successful results will continue for you.
